EXTRACTS FROM THE DOOP-BOEK.

Schenectaday was first settled, by about a dozen families in the Spring of 1662.

The exact date of the organization of the church is not known. In 1681, it was in so prosperous a condition, pecuniarily, as to loan money to the citizens upon bond. The records of the church (except the Deacons' Account Book) were probably burned in the destruction of the town in 1690; at the same time the first minister, Dominic Petrus Thesschenmaecker was killed, and the church was without a settled minister from that time until 1700. During this vacancy, Dominic Dellijs, of Albany, usually administered the ordinances of the church three or four times a year, ordained its deacons and elders, and audited its accounts. The first entry in the earliest Doop Boek now extant is in his hand writing.

Early Dutch names present many vexatious difficulties to the genealogist.

There were three systems in common use :

1. The Patronymic system.
2. The Tribal system.
3. The Mixed system.

1. The first consisted in prefixing the child's christian name to the father's, terminating in se or sen: thus the present Van Antwerp family, of Schenectady, is descended from Daniel Janse, whose children were named Pieter Danielse, Daniel Danielse, Jan Danielse, Arent Danielse, Simon Danielse, Rebecca Danielse, and Maritie Danielse. The Veeders, of Schenectady, are descended from Symon Volckertse, sometimes called De Backer, by way of distinction; and his children were Pieter Symonse, Johannes Symonse, Gerrit Symonse, and Volckert Symonse.

When, however, this method did not seem sufficiently distinctive, and on occasions of great formality, as in the execution of deeds, wills, &c., an additional name was sometimes used, for example : Daniel Janse Van Antwerpen, Symon Volckertse De Backer or Veeder, Jan Barentse Wemp, &c.

This additional name, however, was not always the same ; thus the first miller of Schenectady wrote his name, Sweer Teunise, Sweer Teunise Van Velsen, and Sweer Teunite Van Westbroeck.

In after times, this additional name, or some modification of it, usually became the fixed surname of the family, though not always; sometimes a patronymic was assumed in its stead; thus the Segers of Albany county dropped the early local name of Van Voorhout, and adopted that of Segerse, an early patronymic; some of the descendants of Brandt Peelen Van Nieukerke go by the name of Brandt; and one of the sons of Albert Andriese Bratt was usually designated in the early records as Storm Vanderzee.

2. The Tribal system. This is the system now in common use, in which a fixed family name is used, with one or more prefixed christian names. Double and treble christian names, however, are modern.

Examples of this system are: Clute, Vedder, Groot, DeGraaf, &c. Some of these surnames have undergone considerable variations; thus our modern name, Truax, was anciently written Du Trieux, and was pronounced Du Tron; and Jan Fort, of Niskayuna, had the following aliases: Jan Fort, Jan La Fort, Jan Vandervort, and Jan Libbertee.

3. In the mixed system those of the first and second were combined. Had this method generally prevailed it would have proved a notable help to the genealogist.

Thus the first settler, Vedder, of Schenectady, was sometimes called Harmen Albertse Vedder or Vedderen:—the first Groot, Symon Symonse Groot, the first De Graaf, Claas Andriese De-Graaf or Graven. These designations contain the christian name, the patronymic and the tribal name.

In a few cases this compound system extended one step farther back and comprehended the grandfather's christian name also:—thus we have Samuel Arentse Samuelse Bratt;—i. e., Samuel Bratt, the son of Arent, who was the son of Samuel.

The Registry of baptisms is believed to have been essentially the same in form in all the churches of New Netherland. It was made in three columns:

First, that headed "Kinderen," (children);

Second, "Ouders" (parents);

Third, "Getuygen" (witnesses or sponsors).

The mother was always registered under her maiden name; the same may be said, generally, of the female sponsors.

An attempt has been made in the following Register to indicate the surnames of the fathers;—and to distinguish such additions from the original, they are enclosed in brackets.
